

Ed Carpenter Bio

One of IndyCar's best kept secrets, Ed Carpenter is most recognized for his recent successes on track, driving to three oval victories in nearly every year of competition he's been behind the wheel since 2011. The Butler University marketing graduate, found success both as the driver and the team owner starting in 2012.

Not only does his success surface at the top as a driver, but his business acumen has landed partnerships with a multitude of household name brands such as his main sponsor, Fuzzy's Ultra Premium Vodka. At just 33 years old, he was recently a finalist for "Indy's Best and Brightest under 40," and as the Indianapolis Hometown Hero, he is the fan favorite at the most prestigious race in the world, The Indianapolis 500.

Ed Carpenter, the 2013 and 2014 Indy 500 pole winner, will continue his efforts to pull double-duty in 2015 as the only driver and owner in the Verizon IndyCar Series. As a father of three, Carpenter also knows the value of family and shares his passion for open wheel racing with his wife, Heather.